

Oasis Elementary South Speech and Language Summer Practice

- 1) Here is my bitmoji site which contains links for speech, language, fluency, and social skills practice.
<https://docs.google.com/presentation/d/1hyBGFnh87g4zj6wKEnF0oJSuAaR1CWJYGwfk0RpaQGk/edit?usp=sharing>
- 2) www.quia.com has many speech and language games. During speech/language sessions, the students like the Challenge Board games (similar to Jeopardy) and Rags to Riches (similar to “Who Wants to be a Millionaire”).
 - a. Click on the blue box “Quia Web”
 - b. Scroll down to click on “and more”
 - c. Scroll down and click on “Speech Therapy”
 - d. Under “keywords” type in the speech sound your child is working on or type in “language” to work on vocabulary and language-based activities. Then click “Submit”
- 3) <https://www.home-speech-home.com/> is a website that includes many speech and language activities and word lists.
 - a. <https://www.home-speech-home.com/speech-therapy-word-lists.html> (word lists for each speech sound)
- 4) <https://englishforeveryone.org/> is a language-building site which includes worksheets for reading comprehension, vocabulary, grammar, etc.
- 5) <https://www.readworks.org/> is a website to work on reading comprehension skills.
- 6) <https://storylineonline.net/> is a website where actors read stories aloud. You can practice speech skills by having your child re-tell the story using their good speech sounds. Children can also practice comprehension and expressive language by answering questions about the story or describing the characters, setting, problem, and solution of the stories.